

NVC Communication & Conflict Skills

A Two-day Training for Organisations

Clear communication is the basis of harmonious and productive work relationships between staff and with clients. This two-day course is designed to equip members of your organisation with essential communication and conflict resolution skills that will enable them to more effectively manage a range of workplace communication issues.

The principles taught here are the foundation skills of the internationally renowned communication and conflict resolution process, Nonviolent Communication (NVC), which is currently being taught to people from all walks of life in more than 65 countries worldwide.

For the programme outline see overleaf.

Course Aims

Participants will be able to understand:

1. The core motivations that underlie any form of behaviour.
2. The forms of communication that antagonise others or provoke resistance from them.
3. The essential principles of emotional intelligence.
4. How to express themselves assertively in a way that can be heard by others.
5. How to listen to another person and demonstrate to them that they have been heard.
6. How the way people communicate impacts on conflicts.
7. How to defuse anger in others or oneself.
8. How to negotiate through conflict towards resolution.

Course Objectives

By the end of the workshop participants will be able to identify:

1. 20 essential workplace needs / values and how they impact on people's everyday behaviour in the workplace.
2. 7 forms of communication that antagonise or alienate others.
3. 4 common miscommunications of feelings and a range of core feelings.
4. 2 ways that people listen to what others say that increase conflict.
5. 2 ways that people can listen to what others say that lead to harmony and resolution of conflict.
6. 5 steps to negotiating conflicts to reach a mutual agreed solution.

They will also have practiced:

7. Expressing themselves clearly and non-judgementally using observations, feelings, needs and specific requests.
8. Empathising with the feelings and needs of another person.
9. Defusing angry outbursts from others through empathic connection.
